PROPRIETORS BEE HIVE

THE DEATH OF THE FLOWERS.

The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year.

Of wailing winds and naked woods and meadows brown and bare;

Heaped in the hollows of the grove, the autumn leaves lie dead;

They rustle to the eddying gust, and to the rabbit's tread;

The robin and the wren are down, and from the shrubs the jay,

And from the woodtop calls the crow through all the gloomy day.

Where are the flowers, the fair young flowers, that lately sprang and stood

In brighter light and softer air; a beauteous sisterhood?

Alas! they all are in their graves, the gentle race of flowers

Are lying in their lowly beds, with the fair and good of ours,

The rain is falling where they lie, but the cold November rain

Calls not from out the gloomy earth the lovely ones again.

The wind-flower and the violet, they perished long ago,

And the briar rose and the orchid die amid the summer glow;

But on the hill the goldenrod, and the aster in the wood,

And the yellow sunflower by the brook in autumn beauty stood,

Till fell the frost from the clear, cold heaven, as falls the plague on men,

And the brightness of their smile was gone, from upland, glade and glen.

And now, when comes the calm, mild day, as still such days will come,

To call the squirrel and the bee from out their winter home;

When the sound of dropping nuts is heard, though all the trees are still,

And twinkle in the smoky light the waters of the mill,

The South wind searches for the flowers, whose fragrance late he bore,

And sighs to find them in the wood and by the stream no more.

And then I think of one who in her youthful beauty died,

The fair meek blossom that grew up and faded by my side.

In the cold, moist earth we laid her, when the forests cast the leaf,

And we wept that one so lovely should have a life so brief;

Yet not unmet it was that one, like that young friend of ours,

So gentle and so beautiful, should perish with the flowers.

The Footballists Had Fine Sport Yesterday Afternoon at the Park.

Yesterday afternoon at the baseball Park there was played a game of football by a team from Millersburg and the Maysville team that for fine points and brilliant plays has not been equaled in the large football centers of the country.

Both teams were very near evenly matched, and but for a slight mishap on the part of one of the Maysville players would have resulted in a victory for the home boys, but as it was the score stood 6 to 5 in favor of Millersburg at the end of the game.

J. D. Best, one of the Millersburg team, had the wind knocked out of him by one of the Maysville players, and he had to retire, this being the only time the ambulance was needed.

From the opinions of several members it was decided that the crop would only amount to about 9,000,000 gallons and this, coupled with 9,000,000 gallons which the Trust will manufacture, brings the entire output to something like 18,000,000 gallons.

NEWS NOTES FROM NATURE'S GREAT HIGHWAY.

The river is falling again, and as there is no water in sight from above the old reliable Courier will have to quit before many days.

The Virginia, owing to the heavy fog yesterday morning, was detained and did not pass down until today. She had a fine trip on the coast water.

When the Pittsburgh combine bought the coal men out it reserved the right to dispend with their services at any time and it is said will avail itself of the privilege between now and January 1. Another matter that has been definitely determined is that when the present insurance on the combine's towboats expires it will not be renewed.

The frame of the hull for the new boat Howard is building to take the place of the Boston is more than half set up and will soon be in condition for planking. The hull is 280 feet long, 40 feet wide and will be of a graceful model, and strong. The boilers, machinery and cabin of the Boston will be used in the construction of the new boat and when finished she will be one of the handsomest and best business boats on the Ohio river.

Now that the last rise has come and gone the rivermen want conditions at Duff's bar improved. It is one of the worst places in the Ohio river, according to boatmen, and unless part of it is scraped off before a coal shipping stage comes the operators unite in saying that there will be many serious accidents at that point. Several boats have had trouble in getting by this point, and some of the boats on their way to this point with empties now have been warned to keep a sharp lookout when passing the point where the steamer Relief was stuck for nearly six weeks.

The following named towboats are owned and controlled by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company: Iron Age, Ironsides, Harry Brown, Alice Brown, Charley Brown, Sam Brown, Crusier, Volunteer, Mariner, Voyager, Joe Walton, Coal City, Valiant, I.
